Definitions

Recognition of Prior Learning [RPL]

This is a process that assesses any prior learning which a student has successfully completed in order to determine equivalence and competence with the learning outcomes of some of the components of another course of study. This would include formal, informal and non-formal learning.

Formal learning

This is learning which has been achieved within an accredited qualification.

Non-formal learning

This is learning which is gained from a structured programme of delivery e.g. workshops, in-house training, short courses, but is not part of an accredited qualification.

Informal learning

This is experience which is gained through work or life experiences.

Currency

This refers to the ability to demonstrate current [i.e. within the last 5 years] industry skills, knowledge and understanding within the field of study.
